		1. INTER-ETHNIC The instructional resource meets the requirements of inter-ethnic: concepts, content and illustrations, as set by WV Board of Education Policy 2445.41.	myPerspectives adheres to the WV Board of Education Policy 2445.41 The program provides students with the opportunity to read widely, across time periods, genres, cultures, and diverse backgrounds. Students read about and explore different cultures, read texts from diverse perspectives, and make connections to real-world events and issues. The program brings together texts, media, and audio from diverse authors and sources that are thought-provoking, relevant, and relatable. As they read, view, or listen, students are able to see themselves in the texts because the texts include themes, illustrations, and characters familiar to them, written by authors of a variety of ethnicities and experiences, or ask questions that allow students to talk back to the text and critically analyze the piece from a multicultural lens. The program integrates social diversity throughout the lessons, concepts, content and illustrations, and is designed to reflect our society and be relevant in today’s world so students are exposed to multiple perspectives and a variety of selections that are important for their development as knowledgeable, thoughtful, and critical thinkers.

In myPerspectives, the goal is for students to be able to generate understanding of vocabulary in order to increase comprehension. Discussions about the features of vocabulary, the relationships among words, and the ways in which an author's vocabulary choices influence the power and meaning of texts are central to the way vocabulary is taught in the program. Dr. Elfrieda Hiebert, a leading researcher in generative vocabulary and myPerspectives program author, helped to drive the development of the vocabulary strand throughout the program. Over the course of a unit, students generate, apply, and synthesize the words within the oral instruction, listening, close read questions, vocabulary practice activities, collaborative conversations, and writing activities. Students are encouraged to track vocabulary words and use them in their completed activities, ensuring that students' word knowledge and acquisition is authentic. Student Edition / Teacher Edition Examples: Word Study, 46, 78, 110, 182, 208, 220, 228, 426 Concept Vocabulary, 36, 46, 50, 56, 68, 78, 90, 96, 100, 110, 136, 182, 200, 208, 212, 220, 224, 228, 232, 242	22. include best practices that support authentic vocabulary acquisition using multiple methods and modes that increase vocabulary skills;

Text selections in myPerspectives are accompanied by one or more writing assignments, most of which fall within the three key major modes— narrative, informational, and argumentative. Students are expected to analyze and reflect on the text and to support all responses with text evidence. Performance tasks that require writing are also available at the end of Whole-Class Learning and students write a Narrative, Informative/ Explanatory, or Argument. Finally, the Performance-Based Assessment allows students to use all of their learning in the unit and write a final narrative, informative/explanatory, or argument writing project. Student Edition / Teacher Edition Examples: Performance Task: Write an Explanatory Text, 58–63; Write an Argument, 190–195; Write an Informative Essay, 298–303; Write an Informative Essay, 408–413; Write an Argument, 614–619; Write a Nonfiction Narrative, 728–733 Writing to Compare, 48–49, 292–293, 322–323, 468–469, 612–613 Writing to Sources, 297, 335, 386, 400, 441, 533, 602, 633 Performance-Based Assessment, 122, 254, 358, 488, 652, 810	23. provide opportunities for students to compose varied written products (opinion/argumentative, informative, narrative) based on what students have read, heard, or viewed according to programmatic level expectations.

Questions in the post-reading activities have been carefully written to build toward a culminating insight of each text. We frequently “nest” questions in sets. For example, a question may require a response that demonstrates comprehension; subsequent questions might have students make an inference based on that response and on text evidence; and additional questions might then have students form a conclusion based on synthesis. Questions all require textual evidence to respond and questions are scaled in difficulty, allowing teachers the ultimate flexibility with differentiating instruction. Student Edition / Teacher Edition Examples: Comprehension Check, 31, 43, 95, 179, 207, 227, 296, 381; Analyze the Text, 32, 228, 242, 278, 288, 465	27. include high-quality sequences of text-dependent questions to guide students in delving deeper into text and graphics and elicit sustained attention to the specifics of the text and their impact to aid in comprehension and analysis.

At each grade level in myPerspectives, questions are evocative and stimulate student thinking, connect to the unit topic and Essential Question, and build insight and knowledge. Reading, writing, speaking and listening, and language are integrated within each unit and taught within context. With each selection, students learn strategies for reading a text closely, multiple times. Strategies include how to read a text, how to hold a discussion, how to perform research, and how to write about a text. The majority of questions that follow the selections are text-dependent and require students to search the text to find the answers. Students analyze the text, make valid claims, and reply using evidence from the text. Language (grammar and vocabulary), writing, speaking and listening, and writing activities serve to enable students to make critical connections with the texts. myPerspectives questions and writing prompts include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Core Texts in the Student Edition with critical literacy activities including thinking and writing prompts in Making Meaning, Language Development, as well as Effective Expression • Built-in Writing and Speaking and Listening Performance Tasks and end-of-the unit Performance-Based prompts in the Student Edition 	28. include questions and tasks that assess the depth and complexity of the analytical thinking required by the standards. Life Skills For student mastery of college- and career- readiness standards, the instructional resources will provide students with opportunities to:

The program provides next-generation learning experiences that promote student ownership of learning, develop competencies for college and career readiness, and support social and emotional learning. myPerspectives includes high-quality texts that include multimedia, authentic full and excerpt texts, novels integrations, grammar taught in context, and rigorous questions that require text evidence and higher depth of knowledge responses.

Texts within each grade level provide a range of reading topics and reflect grade-level appropriate knowledge and experiences. Text complexity rubrics for each selection provide quantitative, qualitative, and reader and task suggestions to help guide teachers as they assign the appropriate text to their students.

myPerspectives is a student-centered program with media-rich, diverse selections, student-friendly design and language, and engaging digital resources. Examples are age-appropriate so students can relate to what they are learning, and activities are designed to be interactive. Through the social nature of learning and the power of collaboration, students have many opportunities for engagement as they interact with content, each other, and their teacher. Students read and get their information through multimedia and social media, so myPerspectives offers media selections that kids can readily identify with. Multimedia modal learning with audio, visual, and leveled resources are correctly labeled to aid students in review and practice. Built-in features are designed to increase student academic growth and achievement. In addition, students want to see themselves in authors and are eager to read texts written by contemporary, multicultural authors, so texts were intentionally included to bring relevance to student learning. The program is designed to engage students in learning and purposefully uses visually appealing graphics and images, a diverse range of texts including multimedia, student-friendly and relevant personal goal-setting strategies, self-evaluation checklists and guides, reflection logs, and student choice to connect students and bring value to what they are learning.	31. achieve global literacy and an understanding of the impact of global issues/events on their own lives through access to a wide variety of developmentally-appropriate, high-quality current print and non-print materials and technology resources.

Assessment

Teachers have access to comprehensive formative and summative assessments that include text-dependent questions with Part A and B sections, performance tasks, open-ended questions, and more to measure student progress and inform instruction:

Beginning-of-Year Test assesses standards to be taught during the school year. Questions are multiple choice, which allows for immediate feedback through data reporting. Teachers can use this data or an interpretation guide to customize instruction.

Extension Beginning-of-Year Test assesses standards to be taught during the school year through a combination of short-response and multiple-choice questions. Short-response items enable students to more fully demonstrate mastery of standards through writing.

Mid-Year Test assesses mastery of standards taught in the first half of the year, allowing opportunities for automatic and customized remediation.

Extension Mid-Year Test assesses standards taught in the first half of the year, with opportunities to remediate. Short-response and multiple-choice questions are included. Short-response items enable students to more fully demonstrate mastery of standards through writing.

32. Instructional resources provide tools for a balanced approach to authentic assessment including diagnostic, formative, and summative assessments in multiple formats (i.e., rubrics, text-dependent questions, performance tasks, open-ended questions, portfolio evaluation, and multimedia products).

(Continued) End-of-year assessments determine mastery of standards and help place students in classes for the following school year. Extension End-of-Year Test assesses standards taught through the entire year, with opportunities to remediate. Short-response items enable students to more fully demonstrate mastery of standards through writing. Performance-based assessments are a compilation of what is expected by the standards as students use their notes, knowledge, and skills learned to complete a project. All unit activities are backwards-mapped to the performance-based assessment. Next-generation assessments provide additional program agnostic assessments students can use to practice with technology formats. Technology-enhanced items help students practice next-generation formats, so they are prepared to be successful with online interactive testing. Sample items mirror those developed for next-generation summative assessments and include two sets of items. Each set has been individually tailored to reflect the item types that the two variations of next-generation assessments will include. Organization, Presentation and Format myPerspectives consists of five or six thematic units that each focus on an Essential Question and includes color coding to help students navigate:

- Green - Whole-Group Learning
- Teal - Small-Group Learning
- Purple - Independent Learning
- Orange - Performance-Tasks and Performance-Based Assessment

myPerspectives includes a useful table of contents located in the front of the print Student Edition and Teacher's Edition and in the menu options for the Interactive formats. A print and digital glossary in multiple languages (Spanish, Arabic, Filipino, Hmong, Korean, Punjabi, Russian, Simplified Chinese, Traditional Chinese, and Vietnamese) is also available and a helpful index with skills listing is part of the Student Edition.

myPerspectives digital content is organized in order of use starting with the Teacher's Edition, Student Edition, Unit Resources, Assessments, and additional resources. These resources can be rearranged to fit the teacher's preferences to allow teachers to access content in a way that flexibly fits how they want to teach. Items can be hidden, rearranged, and customized with Realize tools.

With myPerspectives, students cultivate and hone their literacy skills while at the same time, develop high-level questioning skills that come with delving into rich literature, analyzing complex texts from a wide range of genres with different perspectives on a universal theme. The program helps students transfer conceptual understanding and apply it to what they are doing. Reading and writing are integrated and connected in myPerspectives. As students read texts from all genres, they are exposed to the authors' craft. When students write or discuss their own perspectives, they are exposed to different styles of writing and can choose how to express themselves. With each text, students analyze texts through the eyes of a reader and writer and create their own compositions.

SPECIFIC EVALUATION CRITERIA

2021-2027

Group II – English Language Arts - CCR Grade 10

All West Virginia teachers are responsible for classroom instruction that integrates content standards, technology, and dispositions for student success. In grade 10, students should be immersed in a literacy-rich environment and have numerous opportunities to read, discuss, and write to complex texts appropriate for tenth grade in order to meet college- and career-readiness expectations. Over the course of the entire instructional day, students should be given opportunities to engage with a balance of literary and informational text and to write for a variety of purposes and audiences including an even distribution of argumentative, informative, and narrative writing. Students in tenth grade will continue enhancing skills in a developmentally-appropriate progression of standards. Following the skill progressions from ninth grade, the following chart highlights the college- and career-readiness indicators that will be developed in tenth grade:

College and Career Readiness Indicators for Grade 10
Reading	Writing
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Read and comprehend a variety of complex texts including texts that fall in the 1050-1335 Lexile range. • Analyze and defend how author draw on or transforms source material; including how they address related themes and content. • Analyze a variety of literary texts reflecting the cultural experience and point of view of authors from outside the United States; cite textual evidence to support analysis. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use advanced searches effectively to gather relevant information from authoritative sources; assess the credibility and usefulness of each source; integrate information into the text selectively to maintain the flow of ideas, avoiding plagiarism and following a standard format for citation (MLA or APA). • Use complex ideas, strong evidence, descriptive details, and cohesive structure to express a point of view for a variety of purposes, tasks, and audiences.
Speaking/Listening	Language
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Come to discussions prepared; draw on preparation by referring to evidence from texts and other research to stimulate a thoughtful, well-reasoned exchange of ideas on grade 10 texts or topics. • Work with peers to set rules for democratic, collegial discussions and decision-making. • Integrate multiple sources of information presented in diverse media or formats; enhance findings and evidence using digital media. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Apply knowledge of language to understand how language functions in different contexts, to make effective choices for meaning or style, and to comprehend more fully when reading or listening. • Build a comprehensive vocabulary; learn new words and phrases using context and related words. • Learn and use new techniques to make writing compelling, such as parallel structure and a variety of clauses/phrases.
