Introduction

This document demonstrates how myPerspectives™ English Language Arts meets the objectives of the ELA/Literacy Grade-Level Instructional Materials Evaluation Tool. Correlation page references are to the Student Edition and Teacher’s Edition and are cited by selection and feature title as well as digital resources.

myPerspectives™ English language Arts is a learning environment that focuses on a connected approach to student learning. Students read texts and engage in activities that inspire thoughtful conversation, discussion, and debate.

Students will encounter authors’ perspectives as they read literature from across time periods and cultures. Students will listen to the perspectives of their peers through conversations and collaborative activities. And, as students read the literature and engage in activities in myPerspectives, they will formulate-and defend-their opinions as they develop their own perspectives.

In each unit of study, students will read classic and contemporary fiction and nonfiction texts, and view/listen to media selections, all related to an Essential Question. Students will use technology to interact with texts and activities, and they can write directly in their Student Edition to make interaction with texts more meaningful.

NON-NEGOTIABLE 1: TEXT COMPLEXITY
Even though the materials under review have already met the quantitative and qualitative measures of the IMET for grade-band analysis, the guiding statements provided in this section will examine text complexity in order to differentiate quality and richness among the texts your district is considering for adoption. To address the standards for grades nine and ten, the submitted materials need to create the conditions for rich and robust discussion and writing for ALL students (struggling readers, students with identified academic disabilities, English language learners, students who are performing at grade level, and advanced students).
Literature and Informational Text
NN1a. The texts present rich and embedded relationships between and among characters, ideas, and concepts that are conveyed through masterful style and structure. (See exemplars in CCSS, Appendix B.)	At the 10th grade level, in myPerspectives, instructors can follow a clear, consistent unit - design that allows for continuous student engagement in their reading activities. Students engage in whole and small group learning through one or more texts within the unit. They participate in guided learning activities, including specific reading instructions that allow for careful reading of the text. See the following examples: SE/TE: Author’s Style: Character Development, 80, 399; Characterization, 553; Writing to Sources: Character analysis, 400, 785; Analyze Craft and Structure: Characters, 397; Writing to Compare: Compare Characters, 469; Character Profiles, 613 TE: Analyze Characterization, 70, 436; Analyzing a Dynamic Character, 717; Infer Character, 389; Infer Characterization, 106; Inferring a Character’s Values, 344; Interpreting Dynamic Characters, 695

NN1b. The materials consistently include a mix of short and full selections that contain rich and challenging content, ideas, and academic language worthy of close reading. (See exemplars in CCSS, Appendix B.)	Throughout myPerspectives, 10th grade level, short, challenging, and complete texts worthy of close reading exist. The selections provide an equal balance of literary and informational text. Students have opportunities to read both independently and in Whole-Class and Small-Group Learning activities. See the following examples:  SE/TE: The Fall of the House of Usher, 13 (Short Story)  The Doll's House, 201 (Short Story)            "Inaugural Address", 283 (Speech)            "The Thrill of the Chase", 471 (Magazine Article)  The Tempest, 510, 535, 555, 573, 587 (Drama)
NN1c. The materials consistently provide opportunities to read both literary and informational texts in the grades nine through ten text complexity band.	In myPerspectives, 10th grade level materials are incorporated for careful reading and provides ideas for students to utilize while reading informational or literary text of varying complexity levels. The materials for Grade 10 meet the criteria as the vast majority of anchor texts are widely read works that have been in the public eye for a length of time. The Table of Contents includes a complete listing of the multi-genre texts chosen for interest level and driven by the Essential Question. See the following examples: SE/TE: Teaching: The Metamorphosis, Unit 2: 137-179; Teaching: from "The Four Freedoms" Speech, Unit 3: 469-476; Teaching: Inaugural Address, Unit 3: 283-286; Teaching: The Tempest Act I, Unit 5: 512-529; Teaching: The Tempest Act II, Unit 5: 535-549 The "Acknowledgements and Credits" section at the conclusion of each Teacher's Guide includes copyright and permissions information for high-quality, previously published informational and literary texts myPerspectives Grade 10. See TE: Acknowledgements and Credits, R77-R81.

NN1d. Materials provide strategies for grade-level vocabulary acquisition.	At the 10th grade level, in my Perspectives, vocabulary learning strategies are consistently built into the unit using vocabulary from any given text within the unit. Opportunities for vocabulary building and development are provided from beginning to end of unit, alongside practical word applications. Academic Vocabulary is presented and then integrated into lesson activities throughout the unit. Students are specifically reminded to practice learning vocabulary with Work Network strategies that help students learn similar words in clusters. Language Development activities after each selection require students to practice concept vocabulary introduced before the selection and used throughout the reading, as well as provide an opportunity to do a Word Study that explores roots of words to help develop students' ability to understand and use critical vocabulary words in their responses and writings. See the following examples: TE: Teaching: Concept Vocabulary, Word Study, Unit 2: 182; Teaching: Concept Vocabulary, Word Study, Unit 3: 280; Teaching: Concept Vocabulary, Word Study, Unit 3: 290; Teaching: Academic Vocabulary: Argument, Personalize for Learning: English Language Support: Cognates, Unit 5: 495; Teaching: Making Meaning: Language Development: Concept Vocabulary, Word Study, Unit 5: 551; Introduction: Academic Vocabulary, 5, 129, 261, 365, 495, 659

NON-NEGOTIABLE 2: QUESTIONS AND TASKS
At least 80% of all questions in the submission are high-quality text-dependent and text-specific questions. The overwhelming majority of these questions reference specific text and draw student attention to the text they are reading. This requirement is already met if the district used the IMET screen. Text-dependent questions that address the grades nine and ten standards will be described in greater depth in Alignment Criterion II.
ALIGNMENT CRITERION I: RANGE AND QUALITY OF TEXTS
Materials must reflect a wide range of text types and genres, as required by the standards. In grades nine and ten, and across all other grade levels, there should be ample texts on topics that can support sustained study. Knowledge built at one grade level should be expanded in other grade levels. Topics should take into account individual student academic needs and interests in order to foster independent reading. It is also imperative that the included topics and themes are compelling enough to read multiple times and are aligned to district needs. Pay particular attention to the guidance provided in Appendix B of the Common Core State Standards.
Literature and Informational Text
1a. The range of materials, both print and digital, allows teachers and students to explore content that coherently and systematically builds knowledge and grade-level vocabulary across subjects, themes, and topics. (See CCSS Appendix B for examples of grade-level knowledge demands.) Text sets also address a wide variety of student interests, and are likely to foster independent reading.	myPerspectives provides multiple pathways to help students address a wide variety of interests, and are likely to foster independent reading. Comprehension and vocabulary activities exist for each selection in the text. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Independent Learning selections, accessible via the interactive Student Edition includes challenging high-interest selections.</li> <li>• Performance Tasks and Performance-Based Assessment are integrated for careful analyses of text through discussion and writing based activities that are strategically incorporated to compliment the text.</li> <li>• Teaching with Trade Books provide students with another perspective on the topic. Trade Book lesson plans are available online in MyPerspectivesPlus.</li> <li>• Research and Writing activities at the conclusion of selections allow students to explore individual interests.</li> </ul>

1b. Text sets include a diverse range of high-quality, culturally responsive, and appropriate topics and themes. Texts from diverse cultures reflect the same high-quality features that are demanded of all texts.	At the 10th grade level, the texts in myPerspectives have been carefully selected to enable students to encounter a wide and rich range of literary and informational texts. Texts were chosen based on criteria such as literary merit, author’s craft, themes, gender and cultural representations, and experiences, insights, readability, and diversity. Six units of study including Inside the Nightmare, Outsiders and Outcast, Extending Freedom’s Reach, All That Glitters, Virtue and Vengeance, and Blindness and Sight. myPerspectives provides a range of reading opportunities both literary and literary nonfiction/information and include narrative fiction, graphic novel experts, poetry, drama, prose, functional and foundational texts and documents, folktales, myths, and traditional literature. The Table of Contents identifies the genres of each text included in the program. For a complete listing of all materials see the Table of Contents on pages T6–T17 of the Teacher’s Edition.

1e. Student reading materials contain a range of increasingly challenging selections that allow teachers to build students' ability to comprehend complex text and expand vocabulary throughout the school year.	At the 10th grade level, myPerspectives contains selections that are at the level of text complexity required of the standards. The selections chosen, from both classic and contemporary literature, are qualitatively rich, with the vocabulary, syntactical and structural devices, levels of meaning or purpose, required to lead students to success in reading texts of increasing complexity.

ALIGNMENT CRITERION II. QUESTIONS AND TASKS SUPPORT STUDENT LEARNING
Questions posed to students in the materials under review should support student learning in building reading comprehension, in finding and producing the textual evidence to support responses, and in developing grade-level academic language (IMET) and domain-specific words and phrases. Texts for grades nine and ten students must include text-dependent questions that require the use of higher order thinking skills. There should be a range of questions that require students to attend to the author’s language as his/her vehicle for conveying meaning, as well as to support specific inferences with explicit details from the text. Most questions should require that the student refer to the text in several places in order to devise an answer—rather than asking only literal, “right there” types of questions—and should also require the student to compare texts, authors, and opinions (CCSS).

ALIGNMENT CRITERION IV: FOUNDATIONAL SKILLS
Even at the upper grades students must be able to recognize and pronounce words fluently in order to focus on the major goal of reading, which is comprehension. Extended foundational skills instruction continues at the secondary school level and includes word analysis skills, the study of linguistic frames, syntax, structures of text, levels of meaning, and academic vocabulary for students who are not reading at grade level. Foundational skills that address the grades nine and ten standards will be described in greater depth in Alignment Criterion VII—Scaffolds and Supports.
ALIGNMENT CRITERION V: LANGUAGE
The Common Core State Standards for language focus on ensuring that students gain adequate mastery of a range of language skills and applications. Students are expected to meet each year's grade-specific standards and retain or further develop skills, knowledge, and vocabulary gained in preceding grades (CCSS).
Conventions of Standard English

To be CCSS-aligned, speaking and listening must be integrated into lessons, items, and tasks. These must reflect a progression of communication skills required for college- and career-readiness, as outlined in the standards (see IMET). If grades nine and ten students are able to listen objectively to others, evaluate what they are learning, refine their opinions based on their reflections, and voice their own confusion/misunderstandings, their learning becomes deeper and more meaningful. They are exposed, at this level, to varied opinions, and must learn how to determine the validity of evidence provided by others as well as to provide evidence for their own choices and opinions (CCSS).

ALIGNMENT CRITERION VII: SCAFFOLDING AND SUPPORTS
While scaffolds are not a part of the standards themselves, it is important to support teachers in meeting the needs of the range of students in their classrooms.<sup>1</sup> In order to meet the reading, speaking, and writing needs of all grades nine and ten students, the materials must include supports for students to comprehend at the grades nine through ten text complexity band and above this range with scaffolding. Supports and scaffolds should draw students back to the text and provide strategies for vocabulary acquisition. All scaffolding and support requires ongoing formal and informal assessments that provide multiple opportunities for students to demonstrate their proficiency and inform instruction. As stated in the IMET, it is important to note that scaffolding is not just intended for struggling students, but also for students who are ready for above grade-level work. As text complexity increases, and tasks get increasingly challenging, the need for appropriate scaffolds for above grade-level access is equally important (CCSS).
